Perspective

COMMUNICATION ISSUES

The perspective role of a brand director or marketing manager, an important goal is to create an efficient communication to its market in order to promote their products and services, as well as create brand awareness and increase revenues and presence. This task is not easy to achieve; new methods and media are increasing such as handheld, laptop, cell phones, smart phones, I-pad and so on, which requires new techniques and knowledge to create and transmit successful messages and promotions to the market, so this industry is becoming more exciting and more complex.

The complexity of a message will depend on the market target audience, its habits and previous brand experience, as well as company sales forecast and marketing strategy.

Working closely with other company departments such as Publicity / Marketing / Sales and through a market research - interviews and market analysis, will help us to make a clear understanding of how to direct the company communication. The shared results from specialist of different company departments mentioned before will result into a well oriented marketing material support. A well structured information included on this marketing material will create a more effective messages and understanding of the final user, which is associated with a good quality product with a high added value.

The consumer is well informed, due to the Internet browsers and specialized websites, so, each product that we create must have all the effective elements to be competitive in a global world. That is why the artwork, concept art, copy and brand, plays an important role to convince consumer in its buying decision, but also to feel identified with the brand.

The objective of the marketing material is not only to present a brand, its information and concept. Must promote the benefits and characteristics of a product or a service. Therefore the designer must know everything related to the product or service in order to create a specific profile in his mind and transform this into colours, shapes, logos, he also must include the motto and promise that the brand will be remembered in the future.

We design for the eyes, one of the most important senses of the human body; hence society identifies many different types of elements and symbols without words. They see how the quality of a product is, or how they "feel" about a brand. We not only communicate shapes, colours, copy, photos, we communicate feelings, emotions and knowledge.

The focus that I presenting in my work is based on a local approach to the problem but with a global perspective solution. The brands are not limited to regional boundaries.

This portfolio presents just one part of all the work that I have created for 16 years, and everyday I confirm that design is my passion and everything can be perfected, always.

I hope you enjoy it.

Yours.

BUILDING A BRAND EXPERIENCE

DESIGN SYSTEM
ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertisement reach the target group directly and are therefore very important for MAGIKA communications. They often represent the first opportunity to establish contact with a particular group of people. In view of this, observance of the layout rules is particularly important.

The advertisement must always be in color as the green MAGIKA label with two-dimensional logo is an integral part of the corporate image. Black/white adverts are not a component of the MAGIKA Corporate Design.

The layout of adverts is governed by the basic rules already covered in the chapters entitled Basic Elements and Design Principle. These chapters should, amongst other things, serve as a guide as to how the page layout can be calculated for different advert formats.
